Nine Oaks Vineyard – an update

April 2023

A busy month in the vineyard! We have finally completed pruning both plots of vines and with the warmer weather coming we look forward to the bud burst and the proper beginning of the new season. This year we will be looking to take a crop from all parts of the vineyard. We will hope to harvest our bacchus and pinot meunier vines along with the rest of the pinot noir for the first time, alongside the chardonnay and pinot noir vines we have previously cropped.

Kent Wildlife Trust (KWT) completed their excavations on the lower field, digging a pond and several scrapes to produce a wetlands area similar to the Hothfield Heathlands. Due to the inclement weather the pond is filling up nicely. We hope soon to have some grazing animals on site to continue the evolution of the ecosystem. We will also shortly be welcome a team from KWT to conduct a baseline site survey of the amphibian population so we can chart the impact of their work.

We are pleased to announce a series of live theatre events that will take place in the vineyard over the summer months. We are delighted that two well-known outdoor theatre companies are bringing their productions to Nine Oaks. Heartbreak productions will be presenting 'MacHamLear' in June (the box office will open shortly at <https://www.heartbreakproductions.co.uk/>) and Quantum Theatre will be performing A Midsummer Night's Dream and Peter Rabbit in August (box office <https://www.quantumtheatre.co.uk/> ).

Finally, and with huge excitement, we are thrilled to announce that from April, Nine Oaks wine will be available to purchase. Initially our rosé will be exclusively available at Hothfield Village Stores. We are so proud of the finished product and have waited a very long time to share it with our community. As always, thank you for all your support!

Helen Matheson-Pollock

Co-founder, Nine Oaks Vineyard

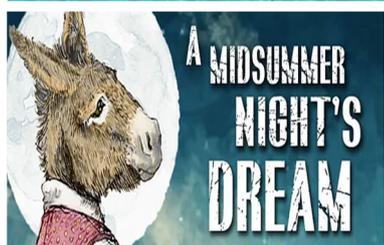

The theatre is coming to Nine Oaks! We are very excited to announce a programme of live theatre events to be held at Nine Oaks Vineyard, Hothfield this summer.

On 24th and 25th June, Heartbreak Productions will be performing MacHamLear, 'a farcical piece of new writing from award-winning playwright Michael Davies that shamelessly exploits the genius of England's most celebrated writer.'

On 20th August, Quantum Theatre are bringing the timeless Beatrix Potter, 'Peter Rabbit' to life for a family-friendly matinée, followed by the open-air theatre favourite, Shakespeare's A Midsummer Night's Dream in the evening.

Tickets will shortly be on sale from Heartbreak (www.heartbreakproductions.co.uk) and Quantum's (www.quantumtheatre.co.uk) own box offices; more details to follow.

Your Parish Council NEEDS YOU!

There are four vacancies on HPC and currently we are operating with a bare minimum. Without further volunteers there is a real possibility HPC cannot function and will no longer exist. This will mean residents will no longer have their views represented locally over how money is spent on local projects and lose the powerful voice for or against planning in Hothfield.

Time commitment to HPC is minimal with only one evening meeting per month. If you want your say on what happens in Hothfield then join us!

Summary of Current Council Business & Projects

Your Parish Council are currently working on several projects to benefit the village as residents have requested: 1) Speed Restrictions in the Village 2) CCTV 3) Village Greenery 4) Path connecting East & West Hothfield 5) HM King Charles Coronation 6) Relocation of A20 bus stop.

Planning

If you are preparing a planning application come and talk to us first. We can advise and make suggestions before you start the formal process.

Hothfield Litter Pickers – Volunteers Needed!

You may be aware that a small number of local residents go out and pick up the litter that's been strewn about our roads, paths and fields in our village. We hope you agree that it helps to make the village a nicer place. We also do this because our Parish Council has kindly agreed to donate funds to the Pilgrim's Hospice in lieu of our 'wages' – so everyone wins. This generous donation brings great benefit to the Pilgrim's Hospice which enables it to provide care and support free of charge to people with life-limiting illnesses, their families and carers.

We are extremely appreciative of all your positive comments and it's very kind of people to stop us in the street and thank us for what we do. Some local residents have told us that seeing us do this has given them an incentive to pick up litter in front of their own properties. Of course we would all like to see more litter being picked up but sadly the amount of time we litter pickers can spend doing this is limited. We each do what we can when it's convenient for us and in the time that we have available. Over the years our volunteer numbers have both risen and fallen as people move away or, for various reasons, can no longer undertake this task.

We are seeking more volunteers – your help is vital! If you would like to help us cover a larger area of the village, please contact us to agree which section of road or area you might be prepared to try and keep litter-free whenever it's convenient for you to do so. To do the job you will receive a litter picker grabber, a high-visibility tabard, some gloves and a supply of black sacks.

If you're interested in helping us please get in touch with Sheila Flynn on (01233) 624 105.

HOTHFIELD HEATHLANDS IN APRIL

April is a changeover month on the reserve, with winged winter visitors leaving and summer migrants arriving. Tree pipits, Anthus trivialis, start arriving in the UK from sub-Saharan Africa in March. Locally common in the south, their preferred habitats are now mostly in the Northwest and Scotland due to changes in land use. A dramatic decline in numbers since the 1970s, which may also be caused by problems on their migration routes and in their wintering grounds, has placed them on the Red List of birds breeding in this country.

The tree pipits name is somewhat misleading, as its nest is hidden on the ground under a tussock, bracken or other low growing plants. The female builds a strong cup of dry grasses on a base of moss, lining the nest with softer material including hair. The smooth inner cup shape is formed by the bird turning round and round inside the nest, tweaking at strands as she turns.. There might be a second brood, so nests are vulnerable to disturbance throughout summer. Cuckoos may mistake their nest for that of their favourite host, the meadow pipit and lay their eggs in it.

This reserve provides the habitat tree pipits need for breeding - scattered trees and heathland and rough grass. They hunt for food in trees and walking on the ground, tail bobbing like a wagtail, feeding on insects, caterpillars, snails and spiders in summer, adding seeds and berries to their autumn diet before flying south. Breeding may start in April, depending on the weather. The tree pipit is in the wagtail family and is a passerine, a perching bird. Anthus is the Latin name for a small bird of grasslands, trivialis means "common" or "ordinary" from the Latin trivium for a public street. Their song, best heard before nesting, is an elaborate series of buzzing trills, descending scales which they sing from treetops and in full flight, using their strong wings to spiral or parachute back down into the tree. The song and their stronger feather markings and more upright stance help distinguish them from the meadow pipit (or pipit).

Another incomer has become a resident on the margins of the reserve at the junction of Cade Road and the A20 and further down the A20 towards Ashford. Alexanders, Smyrniolus olusatrum is one of the plants that starts early in the photosynthesis race powered by its underground engine, the tap root, as it's a biennial. Glossy bright green hairless leaves, pale underneath, and ridged hollow central stems are already pushing up to a flowering umbel of yellow green hedge-parsley-type flowers on a sturdy plant four feet high. A Mediterranean plant in the carrot and parsnip family, Alexanders was probably deliberately introduced by the Romans as a food plant (root, seeds, young central stems, umbel in bud as per broccoli), and the whole plant is pungent. Smyrniolus is from the Greek myrrh, referring to the pungent smell, olusatrum is from Latin, olus for herb, and ater, black referring to the black seeds. The English name doesn't refer to Alexander but developed from olus-ater to alisander. Its nectar- and pollen-rich flowers are appreciated by many species of insect.

Alexanders is established on coastal areas and inland where former religious communities would have cultivated it before the introduction of celery. How did it arrive on this corner? Perhaps seed was blown along the road or carried on tyres or footwear. It is a vigorous self-sower and can swamp native plants to the detriment of native diversity. On some of our coastal reserves, this plant has drowned out native species over huge areas. Other plants introduced to the reserve in previous times include snowdrops and daffodils and New Zealand pigmy weed, Crasula hemsii, the latter still being controlled by heavy black plastic in the most northerly bog. Garden waste dumped on a verge or wild area will risks introducing a too-vigorous plant to that area, and will add nutrients that are not welcomed by the native species already living there. Even if not intended for garden compost, a pile of garden waste in a corner of a garden provides a warm breeding space for harmless grass-snakes and slow worms and safe haven for many other animals and bugs.

Message from the Warden: Ground nesting birds: Thank-you to everyone who has been supporting the wildlife at Hothfield Heathlands by keeping their dogs on a lead across all the open areas. We appreciate the changes that people have had to make and hope that we will see some real benefits to our wildlife over the next few months.

In Remembrance of Ada Hilden Beaney

Wife, Mother, Granny, Great Granny & Granny in law

6 June 1934 -1 April 2022

Hothfield is the perfect place for families.

In June 1960 the Hilden family moved to Hothfield for a permanent home. Hodger and Ada Hilden brought up 8 children in the village. All the children went to the old school as well as a few grandchildren.

Ada loved living in Hothfield. Loved hearing and seeing the children play at school and on the common. As well as bringing up her own children, the Hilden home was an open house for many other children who also grew up here. She was known as Aunt Ada or Mrs Hilden.

Many of the Hilden family still live i the village. Now onto the 4th generation. A few have moved away but still call Hothfield Home.
